What is a Links Course

A traditional links course will have many - perhaps all - of the following features:

- The course is built along the seaside.
- The soil is sandy and drains easily.
- The course is laid out naturally, so that unusual bumps and slopes in the fairways and greens remain, rather than being smoothed over.
- The rough features natural seaside grasses.
- Bunkers are numerous, and while they range from very small to very large, are typically deep (to keep the seaside breezes from blowing the sand away)
- Fairways are rarely (if ever) watered - except by nature - and play firm and fast.
- Links courses usually have few if any trees

Note: England play Italy on their first game of the 2014 world cup. Kick off time 23:00 on Saturday June 14th
